A little opening.
A big relief.

$10,000 founding partner pilot

Help turn last-minute service availability into a useful local resource.

Why Mary | What you receive | The money | The future

Choose a section, or advance through the full pitch.

An opening worth finding

For customers

Finding available help can mean calling one business after another.

For businesses

A cancellation can leave a useful opening in the schedule.

The OpenSlot idea

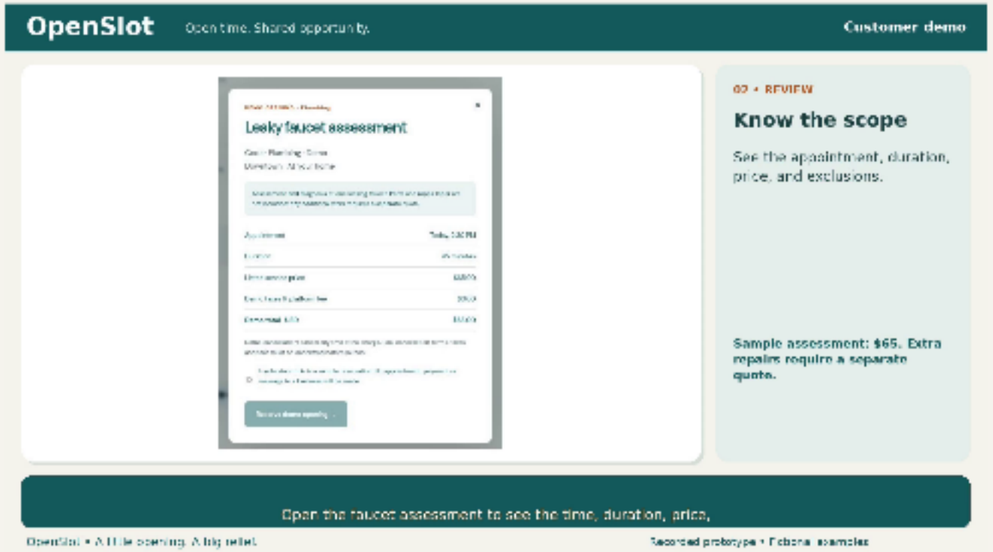

Make availability visible, with a clear time, price and job scope.

Overview | The money | Timeline | Next step

The customer experience

Find an opening. Understand the scope.

Browse a service and time.
Review the price and exclusions.
Acknowledge the scope.
Try a sample reservation.

The demo uses fictional listings. It does not book a real service.

Overview | The money | Timeline | Next step

The business experience

Put an empty slot back to work.

Create a profile Introduce the business and the services it offers.

Post an opening Set the time, duration, price and included work.

Show the offer Customers can inspect the sample opening in the prototype.

Overview | The money | Timeline | Next step

Why Mary

Mary Wistrom

Property manager in Omaha / Bellevue

I coordinate service needs in real properties. I know the pressure of finding available help and making sure everyone understands the job.

That operating perspective shapes OpenSlot: useful availability, clear scope and fewer surprises.

Overview | The money | Timeline | Next step

The $10,000 partnership

Brand presence

12 months of founding sponsor recognition and one sponsor page with a tracked call to action.

Useful content

One practical guide, one jointly planned workshop with replay, and three short co-branded clips.

Pilot participation

Onboarding support for up to 20 eligible sponsor-nominated businesses, monthly reports and two feedback sessions.

Overview | The money | Timeline | Next step

Payments follow milestones

$2,500

SIGNED SCOPE

After the written agreement and kickoff deliverables.

$2,500

READINESS ACCEPTED

When agreed account, storage and pilot workflows pass acceptance testing.

$5,000

PILOT ACTIVATION

When the approved pilot activates.

Total: $10,000. Delivery dates, acceptance criteria and unearned funds belong in the agreement.

Overview | The money | Timeline | Next step

How long it runs

Before activation

Agree the market, trade, scope, safeguards and acceptance checklist. The start date depends on readiness.

90-day pilot

Recruit and onboard, run the agreed activation, and report results monthly.

12-month recognition

Founding sponsor recognition begins when the pilot activates. Review further work at day 90.

Overview | The money | Timeline | Next step

What we will measure

Participation	Invitations, opt-ins and activated businesses.
Use of the service	Posted openings, requests, accepted jobs and verified completions when supported.
Sponsor engagement	Tracked sponsor clicks and workshop attendance. Report zero results plainly.

Overview | The money | Timeline | Next step

What OpenSlot could become

A useful local pilot comes first

01 Prove one market and one service use case.
02 Improve repeat use and dependable operations.
03 Expand into additional markets as evidence and funding allow.

Long-term vision: a wider U.S. network for finding and filling service openings. This is a direction, not a forecast.

Overview | The money | Timeline | Next step

Where the product stands

Public prototype available

The videos demonstrate real prototype screens with fictional examples. Live accounts, shared storage, booking, chat, payments and notifications still need development.

The $10,000 package funds a defined partnership scope. It is not a promise to finish the entire marketplace.

Overview | The money | Timeline | Next step

A focused first partnership

A 20-minute conversation

Choose one useful pilot for your company.
Agree what success should mean.
Put the scope and milestones in writing.

Try the OpenSlot prototype

Mary Wistrom · marywistrom721@gmail.com

Overview | The money | Timeline | Next step